DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

1 Thessalonians 4:1 tells us we “ought to walk and to please God.” Some teach that Christians don’t have to try to please God because they are already pleasing to God in Jesus Christ. It is true that God does accept us in Jesus Christ. How does what this verse says fit with the idea that we are already completely accepted by God?

Is sexuality viewed as sacred in our culture? What about in nominal Christianity?

What can families do to help their children learn to view sex as sacred? Are you aware of any resources that are helpful with this?

Let’s complete the statement, “Sex is sacred, so . . . “
