On leaving time we pass into eternity . . .

No sinner may hope that he can ever die, no saint need fear that he shall ever cease to live . . .

It is impossible to picture to our minds the idea of an eternal duration.

To say that our life can never cease to be,
is only to tell what eternity is not.

To number millions of millions of years and ages,
is not to tell what eternity is;

it is not so much as to describe a portion of it:
for after all these years and ages have been lived,
eternity has not been diminished,

it is only beginning,
it is for ever beginning, never ending . . .

How much more awful to think . . . that in a few short years at the longest you and I shall be in eternity,
on the shore-less sea,
and that you or I may,
through that eternity,
be lost.

Oh, let us make sure that we are now in the ark of salvation!

James Macgregor (1830-1894), Free Church of Scotland professor and theologian.

OUR CHURCH

We are a congregation of the Free Church of Scotland (Continuing), which has a presbytery in North America. The Free Church traces its historical roots back to the Protestant Reformation in Scotland, which began in 1560. The same biblical truths and spiritual identity have been maintained to the present day. Our doctrinal standards are the original 17th century version of the Westminster Confession of Faith and Larger and Shorter Catechisms. Further detailed information about our doctrine, worship, government, and practice are available on the book table and in the church library.
