QUOTES

“Here is a thing which we pass over without much impression at an idle reading, but must certainly ponder, with much awe, when we take it properly—that the Son of God, so far from abhorring contact with the leper, actually stretched out His hand to touch his uncleanness.” –John Calvin

“He knew that if he healed people of chicken pox, they might get polio next month. He knew that if he healed people of blindness they might be deaf in another year. Jesus knew that there was only one permanent thing he could do for people, one thing—that would never change and would last forever and ever. . . He knew he could give them life forever. . . he knew he could do something that would eventually give a complete victory over Satan forever.” –Francis Schaeffer
