

The Final Countdown – The Jewish People

Part 2

“One day a tourist was lost in the country, and while he was checking out his road map, as he was driving his car, he crashed into a farmer, hauling livestock in his truck, in the opposite lane.

And so the tourist was thrown out of his vehicle into a ditch and suffered broken ribs and a broken arm and leg and he was obviously in extreme pain.

And the farmer, he only suffered some scrapes and bruises but all his farm animals were totally messed up! So the farmer gets out of the truck to check on his livestock and he notices that the chickens all have broken limbs and can barely move.

So the farmer yells, ‘These chickens are all useless! Nobody will want to buy these chickens anymore!’ So he grabs his shotgun and blows the chickens away.

Next, he sees the pigs are they’re all lame and bleeding all over the place and so he yells, ‘These pigs are all worthless now! I’ll get nothing for them!’ So in rage he reloads his shotgun and blows away the pigs.

Then the farmer looks at the sheep sees that they all have broken limbs and their wool is all bloodied and so he screams, ‘These sheep are worthless!’ So he blows away the sheep.

Meanwhile, the injured tourist is watching all of this carnage in great horror from the ditch when the farmer then walks over and asks, ‘Are you okay down there?’

And the tourist replied, ‘I’VE NEVER FELT BETTER IN MY ENTIRE LIFE!’”

Now how many of you guys would say that tourists day went from bad to worse real fast there, you know what I’m saying? And man, he was trying anything and everything just to stay alive wasn’t he? Uh huh! Big time! But that's right folks, believe it or not, he's not alone. One day the Bible said things really are going to go from bad to worse when people get left behind at the rapture of the Church, and at that point, everyone on the whole planet really is going to try anything and everything just to stay alive and it ain't no joke, it's called the 7-year Tribulation. And for those of you who don't know, the 7-year Tribulation and is not a party. It's an outpouring of God's wrath on a wicked and rebellious planet. In fact Jesus said in Matthew 24 that it would be a "time of greater horror than anything the world has ever seen or will ever see again. And that "unless that time of calamity is shortened, the entire human race will be destroyed."

But praise God, God's not only a God of wrath, He's a God of love as well. And because He loves you and I, He's given us many warning signs to show us when the Tribulation was near and His Second Coming was rapidly approaching. Therefore, to keep you and I from experiencing the ultimate bad day of being left behind, scrambling to stay alive, we're going to continue in our series The Final Countdown. And last time we looked at the tenth sign on The Final Countdown, showing us we really are living in the last days, and that was none other than The Jewish People. And there we saw that God clearly foretold that when we see, the Jewish People Return To The Land, Become A Nation Again, Be Brought Forth as a Nation in One Day, Be A United Nation Again, Their Currency Would Be The Shekel, They Would Blossom As A Rose In The Desert, They Would Have A Powerful Military and Would Be A Center Of World Conflict, uh, you better wake up! This is an indicator, you really are living in the last days.

But that's not all. The ninth End Time Prophecy concerning The Jewish People is that Israel Would Rebuild The Temple.

And the first thing we know about this Temple is that It Will be Rebuilt in Jerusalem. But don't take my word for it. Let's listen to God's.

Revelation 11:1-8 "I was given a reed like a measuring rod and was told, "Go and measure the temple of God and the altar, and count the worshipers there. But exclude the outer court; do not measure it, because it has been given to the Gentiles. They will trample on the holy city for 42 months.

And I will give power to my two witnesses, and they will prophesy for 1,260 days, clothed in sackcloth." These are the two olive trees and the two lampstands that stand before the Lord of the earth. If anyone tries to harm them, fire comes from their mouths and devours their enemies. This is how anyone who wants to harm them must die.

These men have power to shut up the sky so that it will not rain during the time they are prophesying; and they have power to turn the waters into blood and to strike the earth with every kind of plague as often as they want.

Now when they have finished their testimony, the beast that comes up from the Abyss will attack them, and overpower and kill them. Their bodies will lie in the street of the great city, which is figuratively called Sodom and Egypt, where also their Lord was crucified."

Now folks, according to our text, the Book of Revelation clearly reveals that a Jewish temple will be in existence during the time of the Tribulation, and that's big news because the last Jewish Temple was destroyed in 70 AD by the Romans, which is precisely what Jesus prophesied would happen. But that's not all. What else did it say? The Two Witnesses and the antichrist will be associated with it and it all takes place where? The Holy City where their Lord was crucified? And where was that? Where was Jesus crucified? In Jerusalem, right? So the Bible clearly says that in the Last Days, there will be a Rebuilt Jewish Temple in Jerusalem.

But that's not all. The second thing we know about this Temple is that The antichrist Will Declare Himself to be god.

2 Thessalonians 2:1-4 “Concerning the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ and our being gathered to Him, we ask you, brothers, not to become easily unsettled or alarmed by some prophecy, report or letter supposed to have come from us, saying that the day of the Lord has already come. Don't let anyone deceive you in any way, for that day will not come until the rebellion occurs and the man of lawlessness is revealed, the man doomed to destruction. He will oppose and will exalt himself over everything that is called God or is worshiped, so that he sets himself up in God's temple, proclaiming himself to be God.”

Now here we see the Last Days Jewish Temple will not only be rebuilt in Jerusalem, but halfway into the 7-year Tribulation, the antichrist himself goes into that temple and he what? He declares himself to be god, right? Therefore, here's the point, if you want to know how close we're getting to the 7-year Tribulation, i.e. the End of Time, you need to be looking out for signs of a rebuilt Jewish Temple, right? You can't have the Two Witnesses without it and you can't have the antichrist without it. You've got to have a Temple! Well gee, can anyone guess what's happening right now as we speak? The Jewish People are rebuilding the Temple folks! And when you put that news with the previous two verses, it makes you wonder if the Two Witnesses and the antichrist aren't already alive and well on planet earth just waiting for that thing to get done!

So what is this proof that the Jewish People really are rebuilding the Last Days Temple that the Two Witnesses and the antichrist will be involved with in the 7-year Tribulation? Hey great question! It works well with my notes. The first way we know the Jewish People really are Rebuilding the Last Days Temple is that The Plans Are Already Made for the Temple. You see folks, the Jewish People aren't just back in the Land again and being established as a nation again, wonder of wonders, right now, they are getting ready to rebuild their Temple again. And it's not a hundred years down the road, it's right now! Check out this official announcement for yourself!

“Now presenting, the greatest progress toward the rebuilding of the Holy Temple in modern history: Blueprints for the Holy Temple.

In his recent USA speaking engagement tour, (January 2011), Rabbi Chaim Richman of the Temple Institute revealed to the public for the very first time detailed construction plans for the Chamber of Hewn Stone: the seat of the Great Sanhedrin which is a central component of the Holy Temple complex on the Temple Mount. These complete and highly intricate plans constitute the first stage of an historical undertaking of the Temple Institute: the drafting of blueprints for the entire Holy Temple complex.

These plans, drawn up by a top Israeli architectural firm hired by the Temple Institute, take into account the specific requirements of the Sanhedrin assembly hall, known historically as the Chamber of Hewn Stone. At the same time these plans incorporate modern technological infrastructure necessary to a twenty-first century facility: this includes internet ports, wireless communications systems, computer data storage, elevators, air conditioning and underground parking. All these modern amenities, and many more, have been integrated into the Sanhedrin structure without compromising the integrity of the great assembly's physical or spiritual character.

No land can be prepared, no foundation can be laid, no wall can be erected without a detailed architectural plan first being drawn up, approved by engineers and presented to the appointed site manager. The plans you are viewing on this page fulfill every requirement necessary for the immediate commencement of work on this aspect of the Holy Temple complex.

The Sanhedrin Chamber of Hewn Stone is but a single chamber in the northern wall of the Holy Temple. It was chosen as the initial focus of the blueprint project, not because of its architectural significance, per se, but because of its overwhelming spiritual significance to the world. The seventy elders of the Sanhedrin have been vested with the authority of the seventy elders whom G-d commanded Moshe to appoint in the desert:

“Then HaShem said to Moses, ‘Assemble for Me seventy men of the elders of Israel, whom you know to be the people’s elders and officers, and you shall take them to the Tent of Meeting, and they shall stand there with You. I will come down and speak with you there, and I will increase the spirit that is upon you and bestow it upon them. Then they will bear the burden of the people with you so that you need not bear it alone.’” (Numbers 11:16-17)

These elders are not only judges, but also teachers whose task is to ensure that “for out of Zion shall the Torah come forth, and the word of HaShem from Jerusalem.” (Isaiah 2:3) This being said, it should also be noted that the Chamber of Hewn Stone sits in close proximity to the Ark of the Covenant, from which the sages draw Divine inspiration.

We invite all souls who long for the Holy Temple and seek a role in the historical undertaking that we have begun, to join us in our efforts.”

Now folks, I don't know about you, but it sure looks like somebody's pretty serious about building a Temple in the Last Days, how about you? Uh huh! But there's a problem. Even though you got the plans to do so, you got a position problem. The Muslim Dome of the Rock is sitting right where many believe the previous temple was and where the new proposed temple needs to be. So what are you going to do? And first of all, this is why there is so much strife in Jerusalem today. It's not just a land issue. It's a spiritual issue! But strife or not, the Bible is clear, the end times temple will be rebuilt. So what are they going to do? How are they going to build it? Those plans are going to do any good if you don't have a place to build it, right?

Well gee, it just so happens, right now there's a group of Jewish archaeologists who are saying that the actual site for the temple isn't where the Dome of the Rock is, but it's either to the North or the South of it, which means they could build the Temple right now even with the Dome of the Rock being where it is! So that's one possibility.

However, there's still a strong group of Jewish supporters that say, "Oh no! It's exactly where the Dome of the Rock is." And so again, now you're back to the original problem. What are you going to do? Well, some would say that maybe a stray missile with all that fighting going on over there, will fix that in a hurry! Or, maybe a supernatural earthquake from God will change things. Or maybe even a missile or bomb during the fulfillment of the Gog and Magog prophecy, where the surrounding nations including Russia from the North come against Israel but get totally annihilated by God, just prior to the 7-year Tribulation will clear out the Temple area. Either way, a newly leveled landscape of the Dome of the Rock is not only plausible, in our lifetime, but many scholars believe that it will occur as a result of a peace treaty made with the antichrist himself, which is what starts the 7-year Tribulation.

Daniel 9:27 "He will make a treaty with the people for a period of one set of seven, but after half this time, he will put an end to the sacrifices and offerings."

Now here we clearly see that the specific event that starts the 7-year Tribulation is when the antichrist makes a treaty with the Jewish people, right? And again, can anyone guess where in the world everyone is trying to make a peace treaty right now? Uh, Israel, and again, Lord willing, we'll get to that next time. And what some feel is that the antichrist with his false miracles and fabulous charisma will be the only one to convince Israel to not only give up even more land, but the carrot he uses is the permission to rebuild the Temple. Because he knows they desperately want one! And so maybe after an unfortunate missile rearranged the real estate of the Dome of the Rock, he strikes a 7-year deal with them, which starts the 7-year Tribulation, and they start building the Temple. And people, what you need to realize is that the Jewish people, again, are not looking 100 years down the road to rebuild this Temple. They're ready for it right now!

Which brings us to the second way we know the Jewish People really are Rebuilding the Last Days Temple is that The Priests Are Already Trained for the Temple. Folks, it just so happens in our lifetime, the Jewish People not only became a nation again, and are getting ready to rebuild their Temple again, but thanks to modern technology, they've rediscovered the priestly line again! And this is important because remember the Jewish People have been scattered all over the earth and had no Temple since 70 AD, and so who knows who belongs to who or what tribe. And the Bible clearly says that you have to be of Priestly line to in the Temple. So what are you going to do? Well, believe it or not, they recently discovered the "Cohen" or "Priestly Gene" and they now know who is as this article clearly shares!

“Jewish tradition, based on the Bible, is that all Kohanim or Priests are direct descendants of Aaron, the original Kohen or High Priest.

Dr. Karl Skorecki considered a hypothesis: if the Kohanim are descendants of one man, they should have a common set of genetic markers. So 188 Jewish males were asked to contribute some cheek cells from which their DNA was extracted for study. Participants were from Israel, England and North America and they were asked to identify whether or not they thought they were a Kohen.

And what they found was that there's a particular array of six chromosomal markers in actual Kohens that has been come to be known as the Cohen Modal Haplotype or (CMH). It has now become the standard genetic signature of the Jewish priestly family.

In fact, date calculations based on the variation among Kohanim today yields a time frame of 106 generations from the ancestral founder of that line, some 3,300 years, the approximate time of the Exodus from Egypt, and of course the lifetime of Aaron the original High Priest.”

In other words, they know who's of the Priestly line and who's not, thanks to modern genetic technology, that's appeared in our lifetime! Hmmm. It's almost like things are getting close! But that's not all, they not only know who's a priest and who's not, they're already training them to serve in the Temple as this next report shares!

“Today is really a historical event for the Jewish people. It's the beginning of the work of the Third Temple, construction of the Third Temple. Here we are building a field school for Kohanim and Levites in order to teach them the work that they have to do in Jerusalem when the Temple will be rebuilt.

We are starting to build the replica of the Temple here that will serve as a school to educate the Kohanim, the priests, how to serve the Temple. It will be an exact replica of the Temple. Today we are drilling the holes for the libations, the water and wine libations in the altar. And they will learn exactly what they will have to do when the times comes and the Temple is rebuilt in Jerusalem, they will know exactly how to perform the service.

We've been waiting for the last 2,000 years for the rebuilding of the Third Temple, and here it is for the first time, we're actually taking concrete measures, in order to fulfill that dream and start the process of the Third Temple."

Sounds to me like somebody's getting ready to build a Temple, how about you guys? Uh, slightly! But that's still not all. They not only know who the priests are, and they are not only training them, but they've actually built the stone altar for the Temple and have once again implemented the Passover sacrifice!

"Building a Holy Temple begins with the first stone. With this in mind, the Temple Institute has embarked upon building the mizbeach - the stone altar. On the 9th of Av, 5769, (July 30, 2009), the Temple Institute called upon every Jew who was willing to shed his mourning sackcloth, and roll up his work sleeves, and who was ready to curtail his participation in the traditional Tish'a b'Av afternoon custom of studying chapters of Torah which deal with the destruction of the Holy Temple, and to instead occupy themselves with the blood, sweat and tears of real-life preparation for the building of the Holy Temple and the renewal of the Divine service. In a word, to build a stone altar, one that can be placed in the courtyard of the Holy Temple, and upon which the kohanim can bring the offerings.

This historical project actually began some months ago, just before the Passover festival, when a group of young men were brought to the Dead Sea, where they gathered together stones that would be used in the construction of the mizbeach - altar. The Dead Sea was chosen because it was upon its deserted shores that stones could be collected which had never been quarried or cut with metal blades or implements. Our sages point out that the Torah ban on dressed stones was intended to preserve the integrity of the altar as a place of peace, and tools made of metal, from which weapons of war are also manufactured, would undermine the ultimate purpose of making offerings on the altar, the purpose of making peace between man and G-d.

The stones were then individually wrapped in heavy plastic and sealed, thus guaranteeing their untainted integrity as they were transported to the community of Mitzpe Yericho, 20 kilometers north-east of Jerusalem.

Meanwhile, of particular concern was the unique nature of the cement to be used to hold the stones together. Temple Institute researchers paid a visit to the Finish glass factory near Yerucham to learn how to create a mixture which would remain as cool as possible under the altar's unremitting fires and protect the kohanim, whose work in the Holy Temple was always conducted barefoot. A formula was arrived at which would involve a mixture of sand, clay, tar, and asphalt.

Finally the appointed day of action arrived: this day was Tish'a B'av, the day the Second Temple was destroyed 1,939 years ago. What better day, and what better way to commemorate the past and to commence the future, than to begin the building of the great stone altar on the 9th of Av! The work began at 5:30 in the afternoon of the 9th, well into the twenty-five hour fast that had begun the night before. Despite the hunger and the accompanying fatigue the volunteer participants were anxious and ready to get started.

Rabbi Yisrael Ariel, the founder of the Temple Institute struck a deep chord when he pronounced, "Today, Tisha B'av, is not just a time to mourn the destruction of the Temple. It is also a time to build."

The Temple Institute director explained. "We are building an altar of the minimum possible size so that we will be able to transport it to the Temple when it is rebuilt." The altar, when completed, will stand 2 meters tall, 1 meter long, and 1 meter wide. Much smaller than the altar that stood in the Holy Temple courtyard, it will, nevertheless, fulfill the Torah requirements.

The rocks collected by the Dead Sea comprise 10 cubic meters and weigh several tons. Over 100 people were present at the event on the stifling hot afternoon. Yonatan Tzadok, one of the main organizers of the event, added a historical-spiritual perspective. "The altar represents the return to our roots, to the time of creation when everything was pure. We have taken rocks from the Dead Sea, rocks never touched by human hands."

To the surprise of many who had come simply to watch, they too were invited by Rabbi Ariel to take part and pour the tar onto the cornerstones.

Rabbi Ariel first asked if there were any kohanim in the crowd, and invited them start. A woman requested to also participate. Of course,” Rabbi Ariel responded, “women are also commanded to build the Holy Temple!”

As the sun set, and the fast day was nearing its conclusion, Yonaton Tzadok called upon volunteers to return another day to complete the building of the altar. “Carrying rocks and pouring tar is a lot of work,” he said. “We could use a few hundred people to help.”

Then, if that wasn’t enough, for the first time in 2,000 years, the Jewish people practice the Pesach (Passover) Sacrifice and declare, “We Are Ready!” During the sacrifice, one rabbi stated:

“We see these crowds of hundreds and hundreds of people, from all over who came today to see this event. This is the basic command of the Torah for every Jew on Pesach, the Passover and how we need to bring our Passover offering. The very fact that we are here, we are saying to God, “Here we are. We are ready. It’s in our hands. We are ready to worship you as free people. We hope to do it in the next few years in the way it should be done in a Temple.”

For the first time in nearly 2,000 years, the Jewish People are once again making Passover sacrifices and have reconstructed the actual stone altar that will actually be used in coming Temple. What more does God have to do? And remember, the text said earlier, that the antichrist, halfway into the 7-year Tribulation is going to put a stop to these sacrifices that they are starting to make again right now for the first time in 2,000 years! Are we getting close or what?

But that’s still not all. The third way we know the Jewish People really are Rebuilding the Last Days Temple is that The Articles Are Already Made for the Temple. People, what you've got to understand is that right now they're not only making the plans and training the priests and doing sacrifices right now for serve in this new Temple, they've even reconstructed most of the clothing, the vessels, and the articles to be used in the worship of the new Temple.

The first golden Menorah has been constructed since the destruction of the Holy Temple in 70 AD. In fact, for the first time since it was removed by the Romans at the destruction of the Temple in 70 AD, the Golden Menorah has once again been returned to the Temple, as this article shares.

“In the spirit of the Maccabees who purified the Holy Temple and rekindled the golden menorah, the golden menorah which today stands in the Cardo, is moving this week closer to its intended destination - the Sanctuary of the Holy Temple itself - may it be rebuilt soon in our days.”

The menorah, the work of master craftsman Chaim Odem and a team of experts has been standing the past seven years in the ancient Cardo. The Cardo which is located in the Jewish Quarter of the Old City of Jerusalem, was a major commercial thoroughfare during the era of the Roman occupation of the land of Israel.

On one of the first nights of Chanuka 5768, (beginning December 4), the menorah, with the aid of a robotic crane capable of climbing stairs, will be moved some 400 meters in the direction of the Temple Mount, home of the once and future Holy Temple. The new temporary home of the menorah will be in the open plaza next to the Rabbi Yehuda Halevy stairs, which lead from the Jewish Quarter to the Western Wall plaza and the Temple Mount.

There it will be once again on display for the millions of pilgrims and tourists and passers-by each year as they head to and from the Western Wall and Temple Mount. Chanukat HaMenora, a rededication ceremony will take place on Rosh Chodesh Tevet, (the new month of Tevet), the seventh day of Chanuka, (December 12). Rabbis and dignitaries will be in attendance.

From its new location the menorah will be overlooking its ultimate destination - the location of the Sanctuary of the Holy Temple on the Temple Mount.

The menorah was painstakingly crafted only after years of extensive research by the Temple Institute's full time staff of researchers. The conclusions upon which the construction of the menorah was based took into account archeological evidence and, of course, the halachic (Jewish law) requirements of materials, dimensions, ornamental affects and manner of manufacture as first delineated in the Book of Exodus, and further explicated by Jewish sages throughout the millennia.

The menorah weighs one-half ton. It contains forty-five kilograms of twenty four karat gold. Its estimated value is approximately three million dollars. The construction of the menorah was made possible through the generosity of Vadim Rabinovitch, a leader of the Jewish community of Ukraine.

They also have reconstructed the golden flasks needed for water libation, the silver shovel for removing ashes from the altar, the gold and silver-plated ram's horns to be blown in the Holy Temple, the silver trumpets to be used to announce Temple services and festivals, the harps and lyres and other musical instruments to be used for music in the Temple services, the wooden and golden lots to be used to determine which goat will be used for sacrifice, the golden altar of incense, the actual knives to be used to prepare the sacrifices to be offered at the Temple, the Table of Showbread, the Laver, the Incense Chalice, the three-pronged fork, the measuring cups, the copper vessel for meal offerings, the sickle, the Menorah cleaner and oil pitcher, the frankincense censer, the garments of the ordinary priests and the loom they are woven with, the spinning wheel with the colored threads arranged for the High Priest's garments, the golden bells for the hem of the High Priest's robe, the garments for the High Priest, just to name a few. In fact, they even have recently reconstructed the golden crown needed for the High Priest to serve in the Temple, as this article shares.

“Work has just been completed on the manufacture of the Golden Crown of the High Priest. This later version is much more accurate in its design, according to an historical account by the Jewish historian Josephus. The new crown took over a year to construct and cost around $30,000 to make.

The Temple Institute is an organization that is working towards the rebuilding of the Temple, and has already made many of the objects that were once used in its service. All the implements are constructed according to methods described in the Torah. The last ceremonial artifact to be completed was the blue Ephod of the High Priest.

The Temple Institute noted that work on the Golden Crown of the High Priest was completed just as the Israeli Prime Minister was in attendance at the Annapolis peace conference, offering to divide Jerusalem and hand the Temple Mount over to their enemies.

Another report states: The Temple Institute in Jerusalem announces the completion of the Tzitz, the High Priest's headplate - now ready for use in the Holy Temple. The tzitz is made of pure gold, was fashioned over the course of a more than a year by the craftsmen of the Temple Institute, and is ready to be worn by the High Priest in the rebuilt Holy Temple in Jerusalem.

The words “Holy for G-d” are engraved on the headplate, in accordance with Exodus 28:36. Rabbi Chaim Richman, International Director of the Temple Institute, explained to Arutz-7 that until it can actually be used, the tzitz will be on view in the Institute's permanent exhibition display, together with other vessels and priestly garments fashioned for use in the Holy Temple by the Institute.

“At present,” Rabbi Richman explained, “people are in despair, and wonder if we’re not dreaming futilely while around us our leaders are planning to give the country away. We say to them: It appears that those who went to Annapolis are the dreamers, thinking that their efforts to make peace will succeed, or that the public is with them in their efforts to give away our Jerusalem, our Temple Mount, and other national historic assets.”

“We are now approaching the holiday of Chanukah,” Rabbi Richman continued, “which is the holiday that commemorates the re-dedication of the Holy Temple. We’re not just building beautiful vessels; we’re interested in granting G-d the dwelling place that He wants in this world; the Temple is not merely a building, but a way of bringing G-d into our lives in a very real way. And that is what we aim to do. This tzitz is G-d’s Chanukah present to us, and our Chanukah gift to the Jewish People.”

Now folks, as you can clearly see, almost everything is ready right now for the new Temple with the exception of one thing. And that one thing is called a red heifer.

Numbers 19:1-4 “The LORD said to Moses and Aaron: This is a requirement of the law that the LORD has commanded: Tell the Israelites to bring you a red heifer without defect or blemish and that has never been under a yoke. Give it to Eleazar the priest; it is to be taken outside the camp and slaughtered in his presence. Then Eleazar the priest is to take some of its blood on his finger and sprinkle it seven times toward the front of the Tent of Meeting.”

Now folks, according to Bible, the ashes of a pure red heifer are needed to perform the necessary purification and cleaning rituals that are a part of the service of the Temple. But the problem is, since the Temple was destroyed by the Romans in 70 AD, pure red heifers no longer exist...until now. It started several years ago when all of a sudden, out of the blue red heifers started popping on the scene. And even though some of the first ones ended up having slight blemish, and thus were disqualified, it just so happens they're starting to appear on the scene again after all these years! That should get your attention! Then, even if it doesn't happen naturally, we just happen to be living in the days when for the first time in man's history, we could create a red heifer artificially through genetic engineering and cloning! But even so, God doesn't need the hand of man to help him out! Can anyone guess what was just born on the scene and is now being kept in hiding from the public? A pure red heifer and this one DOES qualify as this news breaking report reveals!

"I was listening to a show that aired today, it's called Temple Talk. It's hosted by Yitzchak Reuven and Rabbi Richman. They talk about the relationship between the golden calf and the mysterious red heifer, including a dramatic revelation, of a new red heifer alive and well in Israel in an undisclosed location. This is breaking news. Here's what they said.

Because everyone is very interested in the status of the red heifer, people speculate, people remember the excitement of when a red heifer was born, people talk about it. And the reason for that of course, why there's such excitement anybody mentions a red heifer is because a lot of people know that there is a Jewish tradition, it's in the Mishna, that there were only nine red heifers throughout the entire history of the Jewish people. The ashes of those nine red heifers were enough to accomplish the process of cleansing or all the generations of the people of Israel.

And there is a tradition that the tenth red heifer is the one associated with the rebuilding of the Third Temple. That's why when there's a news report about a red heifer being born, people get very very excited. It's looked upon as some sort of wake up call or something like that.

I wanted to share with our listeners far and wide the fact that there is definitely a kosher red heifer here in Israel right now. This is really breaking news. This should be on a scroll on the bottom of CNN or something.

We're not making a lot of noise about it, we're not taking out all sorts of ads, and we're certainly not disclosing the location, that's definitely not prudent and I'm not going to be sharing it with the United States embassy, absolutely not.

But you should know that there is definitely, in fact, I think there is more than one, but there is definitely at least one kosher red heifer here in Israel right now. So that is not what is impeding the process at all."

Folks, what more does God have to do to get our attention? If we see for the first time in 2,000 years the Jewish People having the plans, the priests, the articles, and even the ashes of a red heifer to rebuild the end times Temple right now, how much close is the 7-year Tribulation which requires the rebuilt Jewish Temple for the antichrist and the Two Witnesses to be a part of? We are so close it's not even funny! And that's precisely why God's given us the warning sign of The Jewish People to show us that the Tribulation is near and the Second Coming of Jesus Christ is rapidly approaching. And that's why Jesus Himself said:

Luke 21:28 "When these things begin to take place, stand up and lift up your heads, because your redemption is drawing near."

People of God, like it or not, we are headed for The Final Countdown. And so the point is this. If you're a Christian reading this today it's time to get motivated! This is our one shot to do something for Jesus out of thankfulness for all that He's done for us! It's time to lay our differences aside and get busy saving souls and working together doing great things for Him! Amen?

But if you're reading this today and you're not a Christian, then I beg you, please, heed the signs...heed the warnings...give your life to Jesus today...because Jesus can come back in our lifetime...as this Jewish man warns. Indiana Jones...eat your heart out!

"In 1981, Indiana Jones made his big-screen debut re-igniting world-wide interest in history's most hunted relic: the Ark of the Covenant. That same year, two real-life raiders went on their own search for the Ark. There were no Nazis and no snake pits - like the movie. Just two renegade Rabbis on a mission. Their search came to an end in Jerusalem.

"God signed, like with a pen, the location where the Ark of the Covenant was located. You can see it today even, on the rock," said Gershon Salomon, Founder of Temple Mount Faithful.

Designed by God, created by Moses, and revered by the Israelites, from the Sinai Desert to the Temple of Solomon, the Ark of the Covenant was the place of meeting between God and man. In 586 B.C., Israel was conquered by the Babylonians. The Temple was raided by Nebuchadnezzar's army and the Ark disappeared from the pages of history.

"What happened, why did this most dramatic instrument of God's glory and power in human history suddenly vanish?," questioned Joel Rosenberg, Author of Dead Heat.

“All what we know is legends,” said Archaeologist Gabriel Barkay who believes the legends are what makes so many people interested in finding the Ark. Those legends stretch all over the ancient world - starting with Nebuchadnezzar in Babylon.

In Israel, most Rabbis agree that when it comes to the Ark all roads lead back to Jerusalem. They say the Ark never left the city. To them, the so-called “Lost Ark” was never really lost.

On June 7, 1967, Israeli troops recaptured Jerusalem in the Six-day War. The Western Wall was in Jewish hands and those hands were ready to dig. Archaeologists exposed parts of the wall that had been buried for 2000 years. Not all of the digging was done legally. In 1981, two of Israel’s highest-ranking Rabbis, Shlomo Goren and Yehuda Getz picked up their pick-axes and started chiseling their way under the Temple Mount.

“And he knew that at the end of the gate he will come to the secret room where the ark of covenant is located,” said Salomon, who was also one of the paratroopers who liberated the Western Wall in 1967.

Salomon was there 14 years later the night Rabbi Getz opened a secret passage in the Wall and remembers their conversation.

“It was after midnight. And he called me and said to me, Gershon, come immediately, don’t wait, your dream is going to be fulfilled. ‘What happened?’ I told him. ‘The Messiah came?’ And he told me, ‘He is coming almost.’”

What came next was a subterranean slugfest according to Salomon. “Arab demonstrations, you know? The Israelis are coming to build their temple underneath the dome of the rock.” At the end of the day, the passage to the Temple Mount was permanently sealed by Israeli Police.

“No doubt, I tell you. No doubt, we needed just two days more to come to the place where the ark of the covenant is located,” Salomon explained.

Scholars may not agree on the fate of the Ark but many of them agree on one thing: it’s discovery could set in motion another event that’s been 2000 years in the making - the rebuilding of the Jewish Temple.

“Perhaps when it’s time to build the third temple, the second temple treasures will be found. Why? Because in Ezra and Nehemiah the Bible indicated that when it was time to build the second temple, God restored the treasures from the first temple which of course have been carted off to Babylon,” said Rosenberg. “When it’s time to build a third temple, the second temple’s treasures would be found. Wouldn’t that be dramatic?” he concluded.

“It is soon to come, I tell you, I promise you, and you check me. Test me. It will be in our lifetime,” added Salomon.”

Please, give your life to Jesus today because the Bible says tomorrow may be too late! You have been warned.

To find the way to God, to understand the truth of God's Word, and to received the gift of eternal life, begin by repentance and faith through a prayer like this:

“Dear God, I understand that I have broken Your Law and sinned against You. Please forgive my sins. Thank You that Jesus suffered on the cross in my place. I now place my trust in Him as My Savior and Lord. In Jesus’ name I pray. Amen.”
