

Supplemental notes on the definition of the word: “Church”

The noun “church” can be used in two senses: particular & generic.

Example:

Particular: “the church of God in Corinth”; “to the church that is in thy house”

Generic: “I will build my church” (though not referring to one particular church this applies to all churches); “unto Him be glory in the church” (again, God gets glory in each and every church). The Generic sense is similar to saying “School is closed.”
