TEXT: 1 Kings 15:12 And he took away the sodomites out of the land, and removed all the idols that his fathers had made.

13 And also Maachah his mother, even her he removed from being queen, because she had made an idol in a grove; and Asa destroyed her idol, and burnt it by the brook Kidron.

David Kupelian, WND News Center, July 23, 2022):

"...Today, virtually all of America's big institutions – from big tech and big media to big government and big business – gush uncontrollably over everything gay and transgender...as Tucker Carlson recently pointed out, 'Having some purple-haired loser in a nose ring convince your six-year-old to get a sex change is not why most people send their children to school.'

Meanwhile, Team Biden is implementing the rest of its deranged and destructive agenda...yet, in some ways even more disturbing...is today's absolutely unprecedented drive to groom, seduce and recruit America's innocent children into the dark transgender world of puberty blockers, cross-sex hormones, surgical amputation of healthy body...lifelong internal conflict and astronomical suicide rates...Alongside all of this unfolding degradation, tragedy and societal destruction, something else remarkable has occurred: The very same political, cultural and sexual revolutionaries responsible for today's unprecedented chaos in America have now finally dared to 'come out' and publicly identify exactly who they consider to be their biggest enemy...Christians...*

For years they've beaten around the bush, condemning everyone from 'Trump supporters' to 'white supremacists' to 'the unvaccinated'...Some of their attacks have been incredibly stupid – like branding parents as 'domestic terrorists'...Sometimes it seems as though every decent, patriotic, traditionally minded American these days is being demonized as a 'violent extremist' for one reason or another..."

"And yet, there's always a sense that our ruling elites are holding something back – that they're not quite speaking plainly about what's REALLY bothering them."

"Until now...Recently...an Associated Press article headlined, 'Christian nationalism on the rise in some GOP campaigns,'...darkly warned...Suddenly, in rapid succession, EVERYBODY in the leftwing media is hysterically warning about 'Christian nationalism':... 'With the Buffalo massacre, white Christian nationalism strikes again,' blares a Washington Post headline, while 'The View co-host blames 'Christian nationalism' for mass shootings,' FoxNews.com reports...MSNBC's...Jones warns, 'It's becoming increasingly clear that the United States is under siege by Christian fundamentalists and traditionalists...'..."

"He cites simple biological realities: a man's heart is twice as big as a woman's and fills his blood with more oxygen; that man sweats much more freely than a woman does. Or, put simply: You can have your own politics or your own social theories - perhaps. But try as you may - and these days a lot of people are trying very hard -you cannot have your own biology. You cannot have your own physics..."

"Of course, to observe such things is to be labeled a perpetrator of toxic masculinity and the patriarchy..."

"Boys are told they are bad if they are aggressive, if they exhibit the kinds of traits males have manifested for thousands of years. 'Telling boys these things is poisonous, and I daresay it is intended to be so: those who speak this way want the boys to be weaklings, to despise their own sex, to doubt their natural and healthy inclinations.'"

"It's also a recipe for societal disaster. The more males are castigated and punished for being themselves, the more we will descend into a nation of weaklings. Boys in particular are being overmedicated, a worrying trend in a society in which testosterone levels are in precipitous decline..."

"...more than a quarter of children are raised in a home without a father. And porn addiction, which weakens [the] male...and undermines healthy male-female relations, is still on the rise..."

"The more feminist elites try to throw off the 'shackle' of patriarchal norms, the worse things end up getting for women..."

"Patriarchy - government by fathers - is a victory over the male domination and the male irresponsibility...When the patriarchs are missing, what you get from the boys is either aggressive disobedience or underachievement and waste..."

"Boys and girls are different, but they also need each other, both for their own happiness, and their own propagation."

"Esolen's book is then a sobering warning: the more women fail to see men as they truly are, the less they will be able to see themselves. Or, by extension, the less they will be able to preserve the gifts won for them by generations of patriarchy."

"Guys who have always been coddled and indulged by their moms often become 'mama's boys.' Moms who do this tend to be fairly needy (especially when it comes to male attention) and therefore seek to create a relationship in which someone will be very dependent upon her. As the son of this type of mother grows up, he often fears that his mom will fall apart...So, it becomes a mutually parasitic relationship; both mom and son are afraid to be independent of each other."

Jason Craig, author:

"A boy's transition away from his mother into manhood can be very difficult for a mother, due to the unique relationship a mother shares with her child..."

"The Greek myth of Theseus and the Minotaur provides an example of what this process looks like for a mother and her son. In the story, a boy named Theseus is living on an island with his mother, but his father, a great king, is far away. His father wants Theseus to join him, but he can't until he is able to lift a particular stone designated by his father.

“Only when he is strong enough to lift the stone will the boy be able to receive the tools a man needs to fulfill his calling. Later, we learn that these tools are a sword and a pair of sandals that the father has hidden under the stone.”

"Theseus must face challenges on his adventure, but the first challenge is “escaping” his mother...She is not excited when the boy begins to try to move the stone, even before he is physically able...When he finally lifts the stone, she cries out, 'Not yet!' But the boy, now surer of his growing power and authority over his strength, insists resolutely that the time has come..."

"...Even after Theseus discovers the gift from his father, his mother tries to hold him back, insisting that he stay with her for a little while longer..."

"Finally, Theseus breaks free from his mother..."

"It seems to be a natural tendency of the motherly heart to hold on to her son as long as possible..."

"If there is one thing a boy turning into a man does not want, it is to be confronted with his mother's hand-wringing and whining. It is time to step away from the boy and let him become a man; this is probably the hardest lesson of mothering."

"All men are sons of a mother, but the idea of a mama's boy points to a disordered bond with or dependence on the mother, or a failure to grow out of the childish realm. It communicates weakness, inability to face challenges, and unwillingness or inability to enter the world of men. There is no such thing as a 'mama's man;' because to be a man necessarily means a healthy detachment from the mother's direct care. A boy is 'under' his mother's rule, but a man relates to her as a man and as a son, but not as a boy."
