

Take ye therefore good heed unto yourselves; for ye saw no — manner of similitude on the day that the LORD spake unto you in Horeb out of the midst of the fire: Lest ye corrupt yourselves, and make you a graven image...

"There remains, therefore, only this alternative: either the world produced itself, or it was created. That all things came into existence spontaneously, and therefore that we must suppose an origination of immeasurably great effects without any cause, or believe that at some time a nothing, without either willing or knowing it, and without the use of means, became a something This is the most unreasonable assumption that could possibly be attributed to a human being. How could anything act before it existed? or a thing not yet created produce something? There is nothing more unreasonable than the creed of the unbeliever, notwithstanding all his prating about the excellence of reason."

God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth. (John 4:24)

Behold my hands and my feet, that it is I myself: handle me, and see; for a spirit hath not flesh and bones, as ye see me have. (Luke 24:39)

Attributes

Uniform and permanent effects come from uniform and permanent causes.

The attributes of God are those distinguishing characteristics of the divine nature which are inseparable from the idea of God and which constitute the basis and ground for his various manifestations to his creatures.

We call them attributes, because we are compelled to attribute them to God as fundamental qualities or powers of his being, in order to give rational account of certain constant facts in God's self-revelations.

The Essence or Nature of God

The eyes of the LORD are in every place, beholding the evil and the good. (Proverbs 15:3) And the hand of the Lord was with him. (Luke 1:66) Who is the image of the invisible God (Colossians 1:15) Now unto the King eternal, immortal, invisible, the only wise God, be honour and glory for ever and ever. Amen. (1 Timothy 1:17) Take ye therefore good heed unto yourselves; for ye saw no manner of similitude on the day that the LORD spake unto you in Horeb out of the midst of the fire: Lest ye corrupt yourselves, and make you a graven image, the similitude of any figure, the likeness of any beast that is on the earth, the likeness of any beast that is on the earth, the likeness of any beast that is on the earth in the air, The likeness of any beast that is on the earth in the likeness of any thing that creepeth on the ground, the likeness of any fish that is in the waters beneath the earth: (Deuteronomy 4:15-19) Who only hath immortality, dwelling in the light which no man can approach unto: whom no man halt seen, nor can see: to whom be honour and power everlasting. Amen. (1 Timothy 6:16) 5. And they shall see his face; (Revelation 2:4) Follow peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord: (Hebrews 12:14) For I know that my redeemer liveth, and that he shall stand at the latter day upon the earth:
