

A dramatic, fiery scene of a burning building. The image is dominated by intense red and orange flames. In the foreground, a stone archway leads into a tunnel. A person is running away from the viewer down a set of stairs leading into the tunnel. In the background, a large, ornate building is engulfed in flames. Several people are visible on a balcony or walkway above the tunnel, some appearing to be running or looking towards the fire. The overall atmosphere is one of chaos and destruction.
